Speaker: Dr. Dimitrije Krstic

Dr. Krstic obtained his Ph.D. in Molecular Biology from the University of Zurich, and went through an intensive postdoctoral training in Switzerland and USA. Subsequently, he has finished Masters in Human Resource Management at Edinburgh Business School in UK, and has worked for two years as a Scientific Talent Development Manager at an EU funded training project AREA. Dr. Krstic currently works as a project manager in the IT industry, and delivers transferable skills workshops for research institutions in Switzerland.

Dr. Krstic combines an extensive research experience in life sciences and in-depth understanding of human resource development processes to provide fun, interactive, and informative learning experiences. One of the outcomes of his professional interest is also an open-access project for promotion of soft skills development among researchers (www.PimpYourScience.org).
